

Resolution on Colombia

The CDI-IDC expresses its support for the peace process in Colombia, but would like to express its grave concern regarding the refusal by the government, under Colombian President Juan Manuel Santos, to recognize the democratic results of the recent plebiscite on the validity of the agreement between the Colombian government and the FARC narco-terrorist guerrilla group.

This contravention of the Constitution and of justice, agreed to in Cuba with the narco-terrorists, as well as the manifest link between the FARC's drug trafficking and this political crime, jeopardize the very survival of one of the oldest democracies in the world.

Due to all these facts, the CDI-IDC stresses that respecting the terms of the peace agreement is crucial in order to receive the support of the Colombia people; this is important in order to respect the popular demand and to guarantee that the peace agreement remains sustainable over time.
